On data front, the New Zealand's CPI rate grew by just 1.2% lower than 1.4% in the previous month & hence, lowered down the NZD/USD. Besides this, the result of Chinese Trade Balance data will remain into focus on Thursday since China & New Zealand are the trading partners. As seen in the chart, the pair NZD/USD is trading near the Fibo level 38.2 & may test the long-term MA (200) on daily basis. Hence, a breakdown can be seen if breached the current level otherwise a strong reversal can be noticed if sustained.

INDIA50 CMP- 17684.80

INDIA50 is trading at 17684.3, 0.06% up since previous close. The flat to higher side trading can be seen in INDIA50 amid mixed momentum in other global peers. The recent speech of one of the Fed members hinted for rate hike in next meeting as the inflation rate is still at the higher levels in U.S. Last week, the index tested 17800 levels after the country issued better than expected CPI data which fell down to 5.7% & also, the RBI left an interest rate steady. This made the INDIA50 to test the higher levels. The growing tension between U.S & China over Taiwan & ongoing corporate earnings season may remain significant for global indices. As seen in the chart, the index corrected down till MA (10) & MA (200) which indicates strong support & hence, buying on dips may be suggested.

Last week, the U.S issued CPI rate which grew by 0.1% lower than expected figure of 0.2%; turned out to be positive for Gold & negative for USD. The result of U.S Jobless Claims data will remain in focus for the day. Wait & watch strategy may be adopted for the day since the commodity is hovering sideways near MA (10) & also, at Fibo level 23.6.

The Oil inventory level dropped by 4.6mbpd against the expected fall of 0.4 mbpd. This signals for lesser supplies against the steady demand. However, the fear over chances of interest rate hike in next FOMC meeting as hinted by few of the Fed officials led buying in USD & selling in Oil prices since they are inversely correlated. As seen in the chart, the Oil retraced down till MA (20) & crossed down with heavy trading volume. Further selling bias may be noticed in Oil prices with the next possible target of MA (100) i.e., $77.30 levels.
